 It Makes Wrinkles.

Worry over ill-health does your health no good, and merely causes wrinkles, that make you look older than you are.

If you are sick, don't worry, but go about it to make yourself well. To do this we repeat the words of thousands of other former sufferers from womanly ills, similar to yours, when we say,

"Dignity Is What We Use To Conceal Our Ignorance"

is Elbert Hubbard's definition of the word dignity.

Unquestionably Elbert is correct, and every thinking person will agree with him.

Think of the people with dignity and count those having it naturally. He who has it naturally, combined with ability, is a great success in life. Those with assumed dignity are well, they are understood and discounted by the public.

We've no dignity, natural or assumed, and if its use was attempted by us the public would discount it. Let the public estimate us correctly; give us credit for a thorough knowledge of the photograph business; for doing work at reasonable prices. Years of experience in this business exclusively entitles us to it.

Teeth without a Plate is the greatest boon of modern times. I wish you could understand the difference between having teeth with a plate and teeth without a plate. One is firm, comfortable and lasts a lifetime; the other covers the roof of your mouth, destroys the best part of the taste.

One never falls down; the other often does.

Where it is necessary to wear a plate, DR. SYDLEMAN will make you one that will fit.

Gov. Lilley's Message to Assembly.

management and conservatism in the handling of investments.

No branch of our economic activities have contributed in larger measure to the prestige of Connecticut and her material welfare, and an appropriate assembly should do everything within right and reason to foster the business.

The American people are awakening to the humiliating fact that the losses from fire in this country are many times greater than in the well-governed nations of the old world and are beginning to feel that something should be done to lessen the enormous waste. In the fact that the losses are a heavy drain upon the financial resources of Connecticut, because of her high position in the insurance world, lies good reason why it would be a very proper thing for this general assembly to become a leader in the movement to limit the state's losses from fire and to pass such laws as will tend to reduce the losses.

It is manifest that whatever reduces the losses will also reduce the cost of fire insurance, and a great popular benefit would thereby be accomplished.

Dairy Interests.

The recent outbreak of the so-called foot and mouth disease among cattle in several states directs attention to the absence in Connecticut of any adequate laws to protect the dairy interests of this state and the public at large from the dangers of bovine infection.

Fortunately there are in most of the other commonwealths statutes that enabled the proper authorities to take immediate steps to deal with the contagion, and we are sharing in the good results that have followed their prompt action. But the law of this state does not give the cattle commissioner, or anyone else, authority to quarantine cattle on suspicion that they are suffering from contagious or infectious disease.

It is obvious that in order to make preventive measures effective the cattle commissioner should have the power to act quickly and sternly, if necessary in his judgment, and that he should not be compelled to wait for positive physical evidence, as is now necessary. The delay of a few days in waiting for such physical evidence might prove very costly to the owners of cattle and the users of milk.

The affliction of cattle with tuberculosis is a constantly serious one for the dairy interests and the public, and but few states are in as unfortunate a position as Connecticut on account of its laws on the subject. No cattle should be imported into the state without the certificate of a qualified veterinarian of good standing that they are in good health and have passed the tuberculin test. Other states that border upon ours have such laws, and as Connecticut is not thus protected it has been the dumping ground for diseased cattle.

The law is admittedly defective and inadequate in these two respects and ought to receive your prompt attention.

Business Fell Off.

Report of Massachusetts Steam Railroad Commission.

Boston, Jan. 6.—The business of steam railroads in Massachusetts during the past fiscal year was somewhat poorer than during the previous year, while that of the street railways showed a little improvement, according to the report of the railroad commission, sent to the legislature today. The railroads show for the year ending June 30, 1908, a decrease of about $5,000,000 in gross earnings and a deficit of about $6,000,000 after paying dividends.

The total amount of dividends declared last year by the steam railroads was $17,033,965, an increase of $322,655 over the previous year.

During the year 1,100 persons were killed or injured, 103 less than the previous year.

The total amount of dividends declared last year by the street railway companies show a net surplus of $144,011. There were 6,193 persons injured, of whom 121 died.

Legislative Publicity.

There is too much loose, inefficient and conflicting legislation. In my opinion it would be a step in advance if provision should be made so that all bills intended for presentation to the general assembly should be referred first to a permanent clerk of bills, who should be an able lawyer and parliamentarian. Were such a department with a capable official at its head available for the members of the legislature to consult with, he could advise the member who proposed a new law wherein it conflicts with existing laws. If such be the case, and he could redraw the proposed bill if it contained a flaw and could also refer connection with it to bills enacted in other states on the same subject matter.

Moreover, a permanent clerk of bills would in effect constitute a bureau of information that would be available to all members of the legislature, but to all the people of the state. I also believe that it would be a good thing to have complete and accurate stenographic reports taken of the daily proceedings of the general assembly and published in convenient form for general distribution. This would go a long way toward fixing the responsibility and would be a very valuable record for future reference.

There is now and has been for a

A diet of this kind would not be expensive compared with the cost of other foods."
